AxisPointe Inc. Launches AxisFM, a Facility Asset Lifecycle Management System

Following recent acquisition of Asset Evolution, AxisFM offers enhancements and additional features to current asset lifecycle management system originally created by industry leader, Douglas K. Christensen

SALT LAKE CITY—May 6, 2008 — AxisPointe, Inc., the leader in facility asset management and outsourced post-construction customer service, announced today the launch of AxisFM<sup>TM</sup>, the company’s facility asset management division and product offering. AxisFM is an expanded and enhanced version of Asset Evolution, an Orem-based company acquired by AxisPointe in January 2008.

“Asset Evolution was a cutting-edge technology with sound philosophy supporting it,” said Coray Christensen, EVP, AxisFM division. “With the enhancements to the work management module and additional space management features, AxisFM is a complete facility asset management system that provides simplicity and saves our customers a tremendous amount of time and money.”

AxisFM has fused and simplified the core facility asset management applications; space management, work management and capital asset management into a single seamless, interoperable system. AxisFM allows facility managers and business officers to make decisions based on comprehensive data derived from the work, space and capital asset management modules. With this data readily available, AxisFM helps organizations of all types and sizes to optimize their facilities and reduce overall spending.

“The need for an innovative asset lifecycle management solution has become increasingly apparent and we believe we have developed a product and philosophy that meets that need,” said Andrew K. Smith, AxisPointe CEO. “Our time-tested and proven ‘total cost of ownership’ message is truly unique. We’re eager to show facility managers how to optimize their environments and provide financial officers a way to eliminate the need for expensive and on-going facility condition assessments.”

About AxisPointe

AxisFM™ facility asset management solutions take the guesswork out of capital planning and eliminate the need for costly, ongoing facility condition assessments. Specializing in capital asset, space, and work management, AxisFM has fused and simplified core facility management functions to achieve true asset lifecycle costing—all in a single, web-based system.

AxisPointe’s outsourced post-construction services eliminate the hassle, risk, and unnecessary cost during the builder warranty period. The company specializes in customized closing packets, buyer orientation and walkthrough, punch list management, warranty callback processing, service ticketing, work order management, and other warranty-related items.
